The Way the French Do

Michael Mina has proved to be a master of many cuisines with his three Las Vegas restaurants, but the opening of Bardot Brasserie at Aria really puts his skills to the test. Bardot is classic French all the way—we're talking escargot, foie gras, mussels marinere and macarons. If it sounds a little too highfalutin, it's not; Mina has always approached fine dining with an ear to the street. There's no doubt he'll give the people more of what they want with his newest concept.
